News ✓ Products ✓ Site Reports ✓ Technical

Q

23/11/2021 - 13:44 pm

News > Company News

LiftEurop launches a new website

The Luxembourgish manufacturer of lifting accessories LiftEurop has launched a new website. This entirely revisited version is designed to offer a more fluid and pleasant browsing experience to the users.

As for many companies, a website is one of the essential supports for the marketing of products. LiftEurop has, therefore, completely

New Issue

LHI October 2021

In this month's issue

Offhore orientation. Face Time: Matt Elvin, Snorkel. Training options on MEWPs. Lithium-ion batteries. The Insider:

News ✓ Products ✓

Site Reports ✓

Technical

LIILLUIUP.

"Our website had not been restructured since 2013. Business expertise, reliability, but also fluidity and simplicity were the key words while developing this new website", says Christophe Losange, director of LiftEurop. This new version has a more modern look and gains in lightness while remaining extremely complete. Each user, whatever his profile, can easily find information on any product of the range.

LiftEurop is distributor of the brand STAS, an international reference in the production and distribution of lifting accessories for aeronautics, automotive industry, naval, steel industry and the army for more than 65 years. "We hope that this new website, available in French, English and German, will give the company the means to remain so for many years to come", explains Pauline Piron, marketing coordinator at LiftEurop. Visit the new site via the following link: www.lifteurop.com.

Share with:

Related Items

- Caldwell launches new website and rebrands
- Lift & Move USA launches website with educational resources
- Lifteurop promotes sustainability
- Mobile First a Priority for Skyjack's New Website

SIGN OUR NEW

